Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The bill relates to a study on the recycling of wind turbine blades.

The bill directs Washington State University (WSU) to conduct a study on the feasibility of recycling wind turbine blades installed at facilities in Washington that generate electricity for distribution to customers in Washington state.

The Department of Commerce (department) does not execute or implement the activities stated in SB 5287; therefore, this legislation does not affect the department and there is no fiscal impact.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

There is no fiscal impact to the department. The department does not execute or implement the activities stated in SB 5287.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

SB 5287 requires the WSU extension energy program to conduct a study on the feasibility of recycling wind turbine blades installed at facilities in Washington that generate electricity for distribution to customers in Washington. The report findings must be submitted to appropriate committees of the Legislature by December 1, 2023.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

This effort would require a dedicated portion of time from WSU Energy Program staff members, including an Energy Program Coordinator, Energy Project Analyst, and various supporting staff.

The tasks include tapping into the appropriate expertise – both internally and externally – to scope and inform the effort, conducting a market review through industry sources, and interviewing potential market participants. The WSU Energy Program will also research the practices of relevant existing waste recycling and reuse efforts as part of developing both an assessment of the state of the industry and possible future directions for Washington.

In addition, there will be staff efforts involved in compiling the information and recommendations into a consumable high-level report for the Legislature by December 1, 2023.
