Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

SB 5238 – Adds new sections to 41.56 RCW allowing collective bargaining for student employees providing instructional, research, and related academic services. This proposed bill grants collective bargaining rights of student employees of EWU, CWU, WWU, and Evergreen State College with those currently granted at WSU and UW.

EWU anticipates that this bill would create significant additional costs that are indeterminable at this time.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

SB 5238 adds new sections to 41.56 RCW allowing collective bargaining for student employees providing instructional, research, and related academic services. Student employees in academic roles comprise approximately 1200 positions at EWU which would become eligible for collective bargaining rights as a result of this bill, having previously been disallowed. Whether this group of employees will elect to organize and be recognized into bargaining units is unknown.

If student employees in academic roles elect to organize and form a bargaining unit, EWU anticipates significant costs arising from the following factors either increasing or being newly provided:

- Cost of bargaining (AAG/legal services)
- Additional legal counsel
- Representation petitions and PERC proceedings
- Grievance and arbitration proceedings
- Direct labor resources allocated to contract negotiation and agreements, reporting
- Increases in wages and related benefits above current expected levels
- Increases in TA stipends above current expected levels
- Changes in negotiated working conditions
- Guaranteed hours
- Increases in other employee costs due to potential work stoppages

As the nature of these costs are highly variable with many unknown factors affecting the outcome, EWU recognizes that this bill would likely result in substantial expenditure but is unable to determine the fiscal impact of such an election.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Section 1 (1)(2) provides collective bargaining rights to student employees who provide instructional, research, and related academic services at CWU, to the same extent such rights are granted at UW and WSU. Collective bargaining rights are to be extended under 41.56RCW and using only the orderly procedures administered by the public employment relations commission. CWU will be required to exclusively bargain in good faith over all matters that fall within the scope of section 2. (3)(4) The legislature does not intend to restrict, limit, or prohibit the exercise of the functions of shared governance, or any student organization in matters outside the scope of bargaining covered by chapter 41.56, nor does it intend to restrict, limit, or prohibit CWU from decisions related to programming, activities, or services.

Section 2 (1-3) expands the application of RCW 41.56.020 to employees who are enrolled in an academic program on any CWU campus with job duties that are substantially equivalent to those classified as:

- Graduate teaching assistant
- Teaching assistant
- Graduate staff assistant
- Tutor, reader, and grader in all academic units and tutoring centers
- Lab assistant
- Faculty assistant
- Research assistant
- Graduate research assistant except for those who are performing research primarily related to their dissertation and have little to no service expectations.

These employees constitute an appropriate bargaining unit at CWU.

(4)(a) provides exclusions to the scope of the bill including (i) employment termination related to academic requirements, (ii) tuition and fees (however tuition and fee remission and waiver is within the scope of bargaining), (iii) the academic calendar, and (iv) the number of students to be admitted to a particular class of section.

(b)(i) Except as provided in (b)(ii) of this subsection, provisions of collective bargaining agreements relating to compensation must not exceed the amount or percentage established by the legislature in the appropriations act. If any compensation provision is affected by subsequent modification of the appropriations act by the legislature, both parties must immediately enter into collective bargaining for the sole purpose of arriving at a mutually agreed-upon replacement for the affected provision. (ii) CWU may provide additional compensation to student employees covered by this section that exceeds that provided by legislature.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Given that tuition and fee waivers are included within the scope of bargaining under HB 5238, CWU expects to see a net reduction in revenue due to the expected increase in waivers, and therefore negative cash receipts, though the amount of this impact is indeterminate.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

SB 5238 provides student employees in certain jobs the right to collectively bargain at CWU, similar to what is in place at UW and WSU. CWU currently has approximately 204 students, both graduate and undergraduate, that would be included in the scope of this bill, and it is unclear if the group would choose to unionize. The bill would pose no fiscal impact so long as the group did not organize. In the event they did decide to organize, CWU would need to develop infrastructure similar to faculty relations and engage legal counsel to begin the preliminary work, which can be up to a month to determine ground rules, basic contract language, etc.

Based on previous invoices, CWU estimates it could cost as much as $551,000 to bargain the initial contract and given the first couple of contracts typically require more time and effort, we expect to see significantly higher costs for the student bargaining efforts. Additionally, to bargain a contract with grad assistants will mean potentially bargaining every other year and/or starting over every time the contract is up for negotiations because there will be a new cohort of students both bargaining and being represented. We have included costs in the table to show the first year, but note that these costs will arise each time the contract is renegotiated.

In order to support the ongoing collective bargaining efforts CWU would need to add an HR Consultant for an annual cost of $94,246 (salary of $70,862+33% benefits) and an HR Assistant for an annual cost of $70,623 (salary of $53,100 plus 33% benefits). Office and computer equipment for these new employees is estimated to cost $2,000 per employee, or $4,00 total.

In addition to the anticipated costs above, CWU expects significant costs related to the outcome of the bargaining agreement. We expect to see an increased cost in salaries and healthcare benefits, as well other possible negotiated items including paid time off and childcare. These costs are indeterminate.

Finally, additional time would need to be spent training supervisors, updating resources including the website and orientation materials, as well as system upgrades. While much of those additional costs are likely to be absorbed into current resources, there is a possibility that current resources can become over utilized, resulting in the need to add additional FTE.

Overall, the impact of this bill is indeterminate. It is unknown if the student population that is within the scope of this bill would organize. In the event they did, the table provides what we believe the minimum costs for bargaining and maintaining the internal infrastructure required to manage this effort. The actual costs associated with the outcome are unknown and any impact would be in addition to those costs identified.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

SB 5238 would extend the collective bargaining rights available to students doing academic employee work at the University of Washington and Washington State University to students performing those same functions at the regional universities, including The Evergreen State College.

Section 1 (1) would extend collective bargaining rights to the students doing academic employee work at The Evergreen State College.

Section 1 (3) expresses that the legislature does not intend to restrict, limit, or prohibit the functions of the faculty in any shared governance mechanisms or practices, nor does it intend to restrict, prohibit, or limit the exercise of the functions of the associated students of Evergreen, or any other student organization in matters outside the scope of bargaining.

Section 1 (4) expresses that the legislature does not intend to restrict the college's authority to establish, modify or discontinue any such program, activity or service. It further does not intend to limit the college's discretion over admission requirements, criterion for the awarding of certificates and degrees, criterion for selection of employees covered by this act, and the content, conduct and supervision of research programs.

Section 2 (a) defines the student employees in question as those whose duties and responsibilities are substantially equivalent to those doing work in certain academic classifications.

Section 2 (b) clarifies that graduate research assistants who have no service expectations placed upon them are not included in this action.

Section 2 (4) (a) lists certain exclusions to the scope of bargaining.

Section 2 (4) (b) (i) specifies that provisions of the Collective Bargaining Agreements relating to compensation must not exceed the amount of percentage established by the legislature in the appropriations act. If the appropriations act is modified in a way that affects these provisions, both parties must immediately enter into collective bargaining for the sole purpose of arriving at a mutually agreed-upon replacement for the provision.

Section 2 (4) (b) (ii) specifies that the college may provide additional compensation to student employees covered under this section that exceeds that provided by the legislature.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

We currently have approximately 346 student employees who would be in this represented group with a base salary expenditure projection for FY23 at $1,327,210. We estimate this number will increase to 368 in FY24 and 384 in FY25. We are also projecting a salary increase based on the minimum wage requirement of 8.4% in FY24 and 6.5% in FY25. This impact study includes holiday pay for the represented employees as well as tuition waivers of 5% of which we included as benefits. We have calculated benefits at 8.3% for this represented group. We have included one-time software setup costs of $7,500 for new: employee class, pay class, benefits class, salary schedule, and reporting lines in FY24 and projected legal fees related to bargaining of $6,000 per year. There are administrative on-going costs related to this impact study. We will need a Labor Relations Adjudicator/Mediator 2 at $91,524 and benefits at 18.3% plus health and industrial insurance. Additional on-going costs include paid release time during the bargaining sessions for 15 union representatives with an 8.3% benefit rate. We have estimated that the Federal Work Study Program pays for approximately 15.63% of the total student wage expenditure. This amount is NOT included in this fiscal impact note.

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

Sec. 1. (1) The legislature therefore intends to grant bargaining rights to student employees at Central Washington University, Eastern Washington University, Western Washington University, and The Evergreen State College to the same extent such rights are granted to student employees at the University of Washington and Washington State University.

Sec. 1 (2) - To achieve this end, the legislature intends that under chapter 41.56 RCW the university will exclusively bargain in good faith over all matters within the scope of bargaining under section 2 of this act.

Sec. 1(5)- The legislature does not intend to limit the matters excluded from collective bargaining to those items specified in section 2 of this act.

Sec. 2 (2)(a) - For the purposes of this section, "employees" includes all employees enrolled in an academic program whose duties and responsibilities are substantially equivalent to those employees in the following classifications:

- (i) Graduate teaching assistant;
- (ii) Teaching assistant;
- (iii) Graduate staff assistant;
- (iv) Tutor, reader, and grader in all academic units and tutoring centers;
- (v) Lab assistant;
- (vi) Faculty assistant;
- (vii) Research assistant; and
- (viii) Graduate research assistant, except for those in (b) of this subsection.

Sec. 2(2)2(b)- For the purposes of this section, "employees" does not include graduate research assistants who are performing research primarily related to their dissertation and who have incidental or no service expectations placed upon them by the university.

Sec. 2(4)(a) provides exclusions to the scope of the bill including

- (i) employment termination related to academic requirements,
 - (ii)tuition and fees (however tuition and fee remission and waiver is within the scope of bargaining),
 - (iii) the academic calendar, and (iv)the number of students to be admitted to a particular class of section.
- (b)(i) Except as provided in (b)(ii) of this subsection, provisions of collective bargaining agreements relating to compensation must not exceed the amount or percentage established by the legislature in the appropriations act. If any compensation provision is affected by subsequent modification of the appropriations act by the legislature, both parties must immediately enter into collective bargaining for the sole purpose of arriving at a mutually agreed-upon replacement for the affected provision.
- (ii) WWU may provide additional compensation to student employees covered by this section that exceeds that provided by legislature.

Under Sec. 1 (1, 2, 5) and Section 2 (2)(a) - WWU is unable to determine the fiscal impact for this bill, because there would be a range of 1,000 to 1,400 students throughout the year who would qualify under this bill to be represented in a bargaining unit. The variable costs for forming a union and implications that result from bargaining are indeterminate for this bill, but expected to have a substantial fiscal impact to the university. The fiscal impacts are therefore indeterminate.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

In the assumption that tuitions and fee waivers are included within the scope of bargaining under HB 5238, WWU expects to see a net reduction in revenue due to the expected increase in waivers, and therefore negative cash receipts, though the amount of this impact is indeterminate.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

Overall, the impact of this bill is indeterminate.

Section 1 (1-4) and Section 2 (1-3): Expands the application of RCW 41.56.020 would potential impact a range of 1,000 to 1,400 students throughout the year who would qualify under this bill to be represented by a bargaining unit at WWU.

Cost are projected to be greater than $50,000, but indeterminate due to the variability of the following:

- o Potential outcomes of bargaining
- o Salaries/wage increases above annual minimum wage increases
- o Benefits
- o TA Stipends (increases above planned/funded levels)
- o Working conditions
- o Guaranteed hours, student positions, etc.
- o Interruptions to instruction/increase in NTT or other employee costs in cases of work stoppages/strikes
- o Direct employee hours associated with bargaining efforts

Assuming that tuition revenues would fund or partially fund salaries and benefits increases beyond current projections for a new bargaining unit under this legislation, there would be a substantial fiscal impact to the university.

Determinate Costs:

- Cost of bargaining – Legal Fees are listed above as they are the only cost we can estimate at this time.

Overall, the impact of this bill is indeterminate. It is unknown if the WWU student worker population would form a student bargaining union.

Our table includes the legal fees anticipated for bargaining estimated from prior year costs during arbitration.
