Bill # 1469 HB

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact on the Courts

The bill would establish multiple civil and criminal procedure requirements and prohibitions concerning access to reproductive health care services and gender-affirming treatment in Washington.

II. B - Cash Receipts Impact

None

II. C - Expenditures

No fiscal impact expected to the Administrative Office of the Courts and the courts. There would be no need to make changes to case management systems or update court forms if this bill passed. While there are procedural changes included in this bill, the courts do not anticipate large impacts from time spent processing subpoenas and warrants.

Part III: Expenditure Detail

Part II: Narrative Explanation

II. A - Brief Description Of What The Measure Does That Has Fiscal Impact

Significant provisions of the bill and any related workload or policy assumptions that have revenue or expenditure impact on the responding agency by section number.

The Attorney General's Office (AGO) Criminal Justice (CRJ) Division has reviewed this bill and determined it will not significantly increase or decrease the division's workload. The enactment of this bill will not impact the provision of legal services to the Washington State Patrol (WSP) or fiscally impact non-billable criminal investigations and prosecutions conducted by CRJ. CRJ's fiscal note further presumes that any workload needed for Section 15, which allows the AGO to bring civil actions to enforce this bill, would be assigned to another division of the AGO because CRJ does not bring affirmative civil litigation actions in the normal course of its work.

Sections 3 pertains to civil procedure and reproductive health care services and should have no impact on either WSP or CRJ. Sections 4-7 and 9-13 could potentially impact certain criminal investigations and could potentially cause WSP to seek client advice when the requirements of this bill arise during a criminal investigation or response for assistance from another state, but such requests are likely to be few if any. Sections 3-7 and 9-13 could create legal issues that might arise during the course of non-billable (no client) criminal prosecutions conducted by CRJ, but would not cause fiscal impact. The remaining sections address subjects unrelated to the work of either WSP or CRJ and should have no fiscal impact. New legal services are nominal and costs are not included in this request.

The AGO University of Washington (UOW) Division has reviewed this bill and determined it will not significantly increase or decrease the division's workload in representing the University of Washington. The enactment of this bill will not impact the provision of legal services to University of Washington because requests for legal assistance will be minimal. Assistant Attorney Generals will need to briefly consult with providers/departments when they become aware of process attempts. New legal services are nominal and costs are not included in this request.

The AGO Solicitor General's Office has reviewed this bill and determined it will not significantly increase or decrease the division's workload. New legal services are nominal and costs are not included in this request.

AGO Administrative Division has reviewed this bill and determined it will not significantly increase or decrease the division's workload. New services are nominal and costs are not included in this request.

II. B - Cash receipts Impact

Cash receipts impact of the legislation on the responding agency with the cash receipts provisions identified by section number and when appropriate, the detail of the revenue sources. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the cash receipts impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.

II. C - Expenditures

Agency expenditures necessary to implement this legislation (or savings resulting from this legislation), with the provisions of the legislation that result in the expenditures (or savings) identified by section number. Description of the factual basis of the assumptions and the method by which the expenditure impact is derived. Explanation of how workload assumptions translate into cost estimates. Distinguished between one time and ongoing functions.
